

MICHAEL MCGREGOR

LUNCH

4.30 - 6.12.2026

Dan Yoshii is pleased to present LUNCH, a series of paintings and works on paper by Los Angeles-based artist Michael McGregor as its inaugural show of the gallery's new space on 54 Henry Street. Expanding on his ongoing exploration of the still life in his distinctively loose yet dynamic touch, McGregor spins the idea of traditional still life tropes into contemporary scenes that focus on the act of eating and the subtle hedonism embedded in enjoying a meal in today's fast-paced world.

As echoed by the exhibition title, the works in this series depict scenes of meals had alone or shared across multiple cities with other artists. Many are created on menus personally collected during the artist's travels, carrying physical traces of their journeys, rejecting the idea of the pristine, and preferring surfaces shaped by movement, experience, and time. A lived-in feeling is organically created through the creases and stains on the menus that have been stashed in pockets and purses, stuffed in boots, and slid in the back pocket of a pair of Levi's jeans.

LUNCH asks the viewer to reexamine the act of eating through not a lens of the overlooked mundane, but as a celebration of how it brings people together through its collectivist nature, shared conversation, and storytelling.

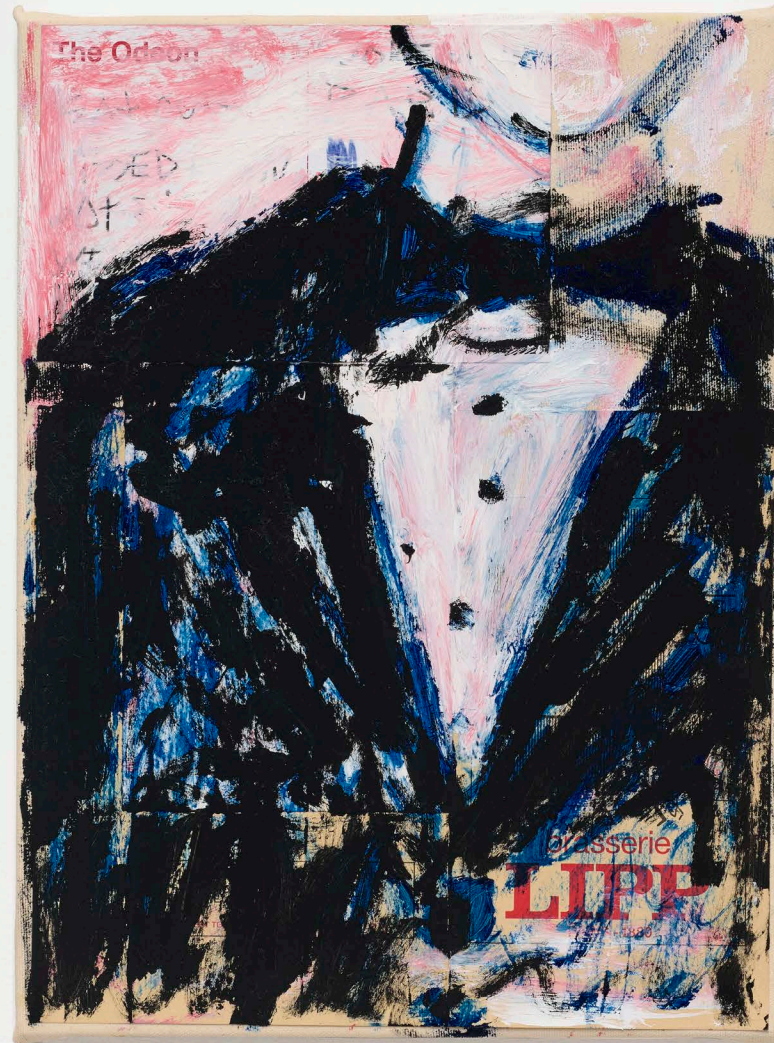

"Lunch is the only meal that matters." - Michael McGregor
